NEW HARNESS

The new Freedom No-Pull Harness is now in stock. This is new technology that hugs your dog at special body points. It is a wonderful way to help teach your dog to heel and to walk straight and forward instead of pulling you where he wants to go. Reduces strain and frustration. We are currently selling Medium and Large in red only.

- Designed to discourage unnecessary pulling
- Tightens around the dog’s chest reducing/eliminating injuries
- Tensioning loop allows easy training and control of the dog
- Multi-function leash creates different options to stop unwanted behavior
- Available in red/black • Fully adjustable • Quick release buckles

Great day for residents of the State of Florida. See Dave McAuliffe’s Facebook “People With Service Dogs” page.

The House voted 114 to 0 to amend their Service Animal statute, effective July 1, 2014 if signed by the Governor. ServiceDogAwareness.org and Pets in Condos lobbied for inclusion of Emotional Support Animals as defined in HUD’s Fair Housing Act.

YEAHH!! Progress …………………..

I recently participated in a Conference Call with the FAA people in Washington, DC—their first ever! They wanted service animal professionals to give their opinion of what was needed in the way of Service Dog Relief Areas in airports (inside and out). It was a mind blowing experience. There were approximately 50-100 participants in-house and on the phones. During the in-house breaks, those of us on the phones held our own discussions. It was informative that all of us were on the same page about what was needed—both outside relief areas and within the security area relief areas that were not too too far from the gates. Looks like progress might be made here too. The issues are location, materials to use and best configuration give the different spaces available at each airport. Good Luck to the engineers and many thanks for trying.

Deaf prison officer in Arizona. There is another one! He works in a warm-weather state, and he wanted his identity to be kept a secret. What does he really do? He is a tri-lingual interpreter (ASL, Spanish and English). When a Deaf person enters the prison, this officer explains the rules and procedures, at the same time filling out the prison paperwork.

This girl graduated from the University of Illinois with her service dog this month.

What a remarkable triumph. Good Luck!

Another Deaf-Owned business

This is National Small Business Week. An event took place at Twitter’s Mid-Market headquarters that recognizes America’s small businesses. During that event, a deaf-owned business was brought up and praised - the Mozzeria, a restaurant that serves pizza and operated by Russ and Melody Stein. It is located in San Francisco.
Deaf golfer Kevin Hall is not giving up on his pro golf career despite struggles in recent years. He is trying again at the U.S. Open Qualifier this week, hoping to make it to this big tournament.

In the meantime he is trying to make it with the minor league NGA satellite tour. Hall is a great golfer but competition among with hearing golfers is intense. How good is Hall? He won the Big Ten championship in 2004. And once he competed in a major deaf golf championship, and laughed his way into a very easy win, by about 20-25 strokes!

He was invited to compete in a couple of major golf tournaments some years back but failed to make the cut. Why? Competition and competition!

Famous Deaf Historians

William Willard
(11/1/1809-02/15/1988)

Founder of Indiana School for the Deaf

A native of Vermont, William Willard was enrolled at the “Hartford Asylum” as its 132nd pupil. Laurent Clerc, his teacher and mentor, instilled in him his dream of providing an education for all deaf people in the United States. Willard became a dedicated teacher in the Columbus, Ohio “Asylum,” where he first met his wife, Eliza Young. In 1843, Willard proposed to Indiana’s General Assembly that a new school for the deaf be established in the state. He traveled statewide on horseback, rounding up a dozen pupils, and the Willards soon opened their semi-private school in Indianapolis. Tuition was free; $1.50 per week was charged for boarding. When the General Assembly reconvened, they agreed to fund the new school—the nation’s sixth, but the first to provide free education. Willard’s legacy—Indiana School for the Deaf—still thrives.

One reason a dog can be such a comfort when you’re feeling blue is that he doesn’t try to find out why.
